

CARRANZA WILL JOIN PEACE MEET

Files Brief With Lansing Receding from Refusal to Enter Conference

OUTLINE U. S. ATTITUDE

Considers Purpose of Revolt Was Accomplished When Huerta Was Deposed

SCOTT CONFIDENT OF SUCCESS

BULLETIN.

Mexico City, Aug. 7.—Dr. Juan J. Ortega, minister to Mexico from Guatemala was given his passports today and informed that he must leave the country within 24 hours.

The reason for this step was not announced but it is supposed that he is persona non grata with Carranza.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Two developments of first importance today brought the Mexican situation into a position regarded by American officials as more encouraging than for many months. General Carranza, in a brief filed in his behalf with Secretary Lansing, practically asking recognition, receded from his refusal to join his adversaries in a peace conference and virtually proposed such a meeting. General Villa was at once notified by his Washington agents and an early response is expected.

Outline Attitude of U. S.

The attitude of the United States, outlined officially for the first time since the Pan-American conference was called, made clear that it considers the purposes of the Mexican revolution were accomplished when Huerta was deposed; that all the fighting since has been only over factional differences; that neither Carranza nor Villa controls Mexico to an extent which entitles either to recognition; and that the first problem is to find a man for provisional president who represents the cause of the original revolution against Huerta but who is not necessarily identified with any of the warring factions.

Steps are being taken which have their goal the consummation of an agreement between Villa and Carranza and there together with the selection of a provisional president will be discussed at the next Pan-American conference in New York probably during the coming week.

Lansing Goes to New York.

Secretary Lansing and Secretary McAdoo of the treasury department will confer in New York tomorrow on the Mexican situation. Mr. Lansing left Washington tonight for New York where he said he would meet Mr. McAdoo and discuss the Mexican situation. He declined to say what phase of the Mexican situation would be discussed. He said he expected to return to Washington Monday.

Mr. McAdoo, who has been at his summer home at North Haven, Maine, was summoned by a telegram late today and also was enroute to New York tonight.

During the Pan-American conference here there was considerable discussion of the question of financing any government which might be set up in Mexico.

Undoubtedly American financiers will have to be consulted and it was suggested here tonight that Secretary McAdoo will be charged with the duty of sounding them.

Send Copies to Diplomats.

Secretary Lansing said the Carranza brief has not been formally submitted to the conference. It was earned however, that copies were sent to each member and also to President Wilson.

General Villa it is believed will be quick to seize the opportunity presented by Carranza's change of attitude to bring about a conference of the factions. In this connection it is expected that General Scott, chief of staff of the army, enroute to the Mexican border, may be of service. He is to talk with General Villa and may persuade him of the necessity for giving to Carranza that measure of consideration in adjustment of Mexican affairs which his military achievements warrant.

Active consideration of the Mexican problem has been reflected by increased activity in the war department. Plans long ago made for military occupation of Mexico have been recently readjusted.

Scott Confident of Success.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—Major General Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff of the United States Army, today halted a few hours in Chicago on his way from Washington to El Paso, Tex., and said he was confident of his ability to do much in bringing the warring factions of the southern republic into agreement.

HAY ASSERTS COURT CAN REFUSE

Russell's Attorney Contends That Appropriation of the Good of the People, Even if Irregularly Passed, Should Not be Held Up by Injunction Proceedings.

Springfield, Aug. 7.—The attorneys for the state were in the midst of their arguments when Judge Creighton, before whom the case of the bills filed by John B. Russell, of Chicago, attacking the validity of many appropriations made by the recent session of the legislature, adjourned court to 9 o'clock Monday morning.

Former Senator Logan Hay, counsel for State Treasurer Andrew Russell, named as one of the defendants in the bills, presented an argument to the court in which he contended that appropriations for the good of the public, even if irregularly passed by the legislature, should not be held up by injunction proceedings. Attorney Hay held that the court, in its discretion, could refuse to grant the writ prayed for, even if technical errors in the passage of the act under attack were shown.

"Such a suit as this," said Attorney Hay, "is not brought by the complainant, as he himself admits, to save himself the insignificant amount of additional taxes the appropriations complained of would necessitate, but it is a public suit. If the attorney general considered that money was being paid out of the state treasury unjustly he could appear in this case on the side of the complainant. There is no charge of dereliction of duty on the part of either the treasurer or the auditor. This gives the court discretionary power to allow payments which would be for the public good."

The hearing on the "omnibus" bill is expected to be concluded by noon Monday. The bill attacking the validity of the deficiency appropriation law will then be taken up.

PRESIDENT WILSON DECIDES TO RETURN TO WASHINGTON

To Get Into Personal Touch With Developments in Mexican Situation and Diplomatic Exchanges With Germany and England.

Cornish, N. H., Aug. 7.—In view of the fact that so many problems demanding quick action have developed during the past few days, President Wilson has decided to return to Washington. It was learned tonight to get into personal touch with the recent developments in the Mexican situation, diplomatic exchanges between this country and Germany and Great Britain and other pressing official duties. The exact time of the president's departure has not been determined but it is probable he will be back in Washington before the end of the next week.

He may return to Cornish later if public business permits.

The president today was informed of the filing of a brief by General Carranza with the state department proposing a conference with his adversaries and virtually asking for recognition by the United States.

TWO ARE KILLED IN DES MOINES DERBY

JOE COOPER'S CAR SAILS OVER THE OUTER EDGE OF THE BOWL

Driver's Skull is Crushed and Death is Instantaneous—Chandler's Car Crashes Into Inside Rail—Three are Taken to Hospital, Where Chandler's Mechanician Dies—DePalma Wins Race.

BULLETIN.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Aug. 7.—After making a new time sheet from the electric checking machine the judges at 2:30 this morning awarded the race to Mulford and ranked DePalma second. Mulford's official time was announced as 3 hours, 27 minutes, 5.3 seconds. DePalma's time three hours, 28 minutes 12.02 seconds.

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 7.—One death and probably fatal injury to two others, while a fourth is in the hospital painfully hurt, resulted today from the first running of the 300 mile automobile derby on the new mile speedway here. Ralph DePalma was declared winner of the race, Ralph Mulford second and Eddie O'Donnell third.

Cooper Pinned Beneath Car. Joe Cooper was killed during the eighth lap of the race when his car sailed over the outer edge of the bowl and landed outside with Cooper and his mechanic, Louis Peio, pinned underneath the wreckage.

The second accident came near the close of the race, when in the 238th lap, Billy Chandler's car crashed against the inside rail, almost opposite the point where Cooper had met his death. Morris Keller, Chandler's mechanic was said to be in a serious condition at the hospital tonight and his death was predicted within a few hours. Chandler has less than an even chance for recovery, according to the physicians Peio, Cooper's mechanic, was reported also to be in a critical condition with better prospects, however, than the others.

Cooper's skull was crushed in the first accident and his death was practically instantaneous. Keeler's injuries are a broken right shoulder and hip, fractured collar bone and concussion of the brain. Chandler went into convulsion while being taken to the hospital, where it was found that he suffered a broken left hip and internal injuries.

Tire Blowouts Cause Accidents.

In both accidents tire blowouts were ascribed as the cause, although in the case of Cooper, a broken steering knuckle was said to have been the immediate reason for his loss of control while travelling 100 miles an hour.

The race itself was full of thrills, aside from its tragic features. For most of the 300 miles it was a nip and tuck affair between DePalma, Mulford and O'Donnell, the former keeping the lead the greater part of the time. In the last fifteen miles, however, he developed a run of bad luck with tires which threatened to lose him first place, but he forged ahead in the last three miles and crossed the line ahead of Mulford. So close were the two leaders that the judges were for several minutes divided as to who had won. The first announcement was that Mulford was the victor but this was quickly changed and the official announcement gave DePalma first money.

Morris S. Keeler, mechanic to Billy Chandler, died at the hospital shortly before 9 o'clock tonight.

One of Younger Auto Drivers. Chicago, Aug. 7.—Jos. Cooper, killed in the Des Moines auto race today, was one of the younger generation of auto drivers, having taken his first mount about four years ago. He bears no relationship to Earl Cooper.

Cooper's earliest experience was on dirt roads and he had done little on tracks or speedways.

Cooper was born in Youngstown, Ohio, about 24 years ago. He was unmarried.

War News Summarized.

The armies of Grand Duke Nicholas after evacuating Warsaw in an orderly manner, are not yet out of the mesh spread by one of the German officers, as indicated in Russian official reports, which say a large part of the Russian army remained close to the Polish capital to contest any effort of the Germans to cross the Vistula in pursuit.

The Russians, it is stated, stationed artillery on the right bank of the Vistula and made earnest efforts to prevent the rebuilding of the Vistula bridges by the Germans and this is borne out by the Berlin official communication which declares that the Russians continue to bombard Warsaw from Praga on the eastern bank of the river.

In the meantime, the Germans north of the Polish capital who are investing the Russian fortress of Novogeorgievsk, which has been left to its own resources, have penetrated as far as the Barez river, while to the southeast of Warsaw between the Bug and the Vistula, the Teutons assert they have forced the Russians to evacuate their positions near Ruskowola.

On the northern end of the eastern battle field Petrograd claims the Germans have received a check to their enveloping movement in the region of Riga, the Baltic capital, where the Russians say the invaders have been driven back on Mitau. Petrograd also intimates that the Teutons for the time being have abandoned their efforts in the direction of Riga and are turning their attention to stem a Russian flanking movement from the direction of Poniwesch. The evacuation of Riga by the civil population, however, continues apace.

Details of the capture of Warsaw just reaching Berlin say that all the kingdoms of Germany were represented in the capture of the capital.

At Munich after the news of Warsaw's capitulation was received, 100,000 Bavarians gathered in the central square of the city and with bare heads sang hymns and offered prayers of thanks for the victory to German arms. In France a spirited engagement between the Germans and French with hand grenades in the Argonne forest is announced in a French official communication which also reports fighting in the vicinity of Souchez and artillery duels in the region of Tracy-Le-Val and Berry-au-Bac.

In Flanders, the Germans claim to have forced the Belgians to evacuate some portions of their advanced positions over the Yser river, south of Dixmude. Unofficial advices from Turin say the Italians have stormed the summit of Monte San Michele, which dominates the Austrian town of Gorizia and whose fall is now said to appear imminent.

A second Italian submarine, the Nerelde, is reported to have been destroyed in an engagement in the Adriatic with an Austrian submersible, while in the waters around Great Britain six British fishing smacks have been sent to the bottom and a Danish steamer set on fire, presumably by German undersea boats.

JUDGE FREEMAN RESIGNS BECAUSE OF ILL HEALTH

HAS BEEN SUPERIOR COURT JUDGE OF CHICAGO MORE THAN 20 YEARS

Friends State Ill Health Resulted From Worry Over a Sentence Imposed on Two Men Twenty Years Ago—Recently Obtained Pardon for Them.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 7.—Because of ill health Judge Henry V. Freeman, for more than twenty years superior court judge of Chicago, today tendered his resignation to Governor Dunne and it was accepted, effective October 1. Judge Freeman's term expires in December, 1917 and a special election will be necessary to fill the vacancy.

Worried Over Sentence.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—Friends of Judge Henry V. Freeman, who today sent his resignation from the superior bench of Cook county, to Governor Dunne, said ill health which is given as the reason for the resignation came as the result of worry over a sentence imposed on two men twenty years ago.

Two years after Judge Freeman was elected to the superior court he presided at the trial of Thomas McNally, Charles Kurth and Edward Warren for the murder of James Prunty and his son Peter. The jury returned a verdict of guilty and Judge Freeman sentenced the defendants to life imprisonment. Warren died in prison. McNally, a white haired veteran of the Civil war and Kurth were paroled a few weeks ago as a result of efforts in their behalf by Judge Freeman.

Friends of the jurist said tonight that six years after the men were sentenced Judge Freeman procured evidence which convinced him that McNally, Kurth and Warren were victims of a conspiracy. Upon reaching this conclusion the judge made every effort to procure pardons for McNally and Furth and finally was successful.

Worry over the fact that two men whom he believed innocent were in prison under sentence pronounced by him is believed to have undermined the judge's health.

RACE BETTERMENT CONFERENCE ACCEPTS VIEW OF PROF. FISHER

Instructor at Yale Takes Position That Eugenics Will Act as a Stimulus to Love Rather than as a Detriment.

Oakland, Cal., Aug. 7.—The national conference on race betterment, at its concluding session today accepted the view of Prof. Irving Fisher, of Yale, that eugenics would act as a stimulus to love rather than as a detriment and that general practice eugenics would not necessarily mean loveless marriages. Prof. Fisher brought forward this view in his reply to Dr. C. P. Ballard, of Lincoln, Neb., who had said: "Romeo loved his Juliet, eugenics or no eugenics and it is the same with Pat and Bridget today. I hope we'll never see the day when two persons who love each other cannot marry."

Professor Fisher took the position that persons physically or mentally defective should not be allowed to marry even if in love. He added that society, throughout history, has been a mixture of idealism and would register more love marriages than it would without those ideals and the conference accepted his view of the matter.

TEUTONS BREAK RUSS RESISTANCE

Germans Under Von Hindenburg Force Line Between Lomza and Bug

ENDS BITTER BATTLE

British Critics Believe Withdrawal of the Muscovites Was a Voluntary One

NOVOGEORGIEVSK HOLDS OUT

LONDON, Aug. 7.—The German official report tonight claims that the resistance of the Russians has been broken between Lomza and the mouth of the Bug river. Thus, whether the Russians have been defeated or have fallen back voluntarily to a new position, one of the bitterest battles that has been fought since the commencement of the war has ended.

Believe Withdrawal Was Voluntary. For just three weeks the Germans, under the supreme command of Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, have been trying to force this front which usually is referred to as that of the Narva and to cut off the Russian armies in their retreat from Warsaw. That not until three days after the evacuation of Warsaw has this line given way leads British critics to the conclusion that the Russian withdrawal was a voluntary one and that Grand Duke Nicholas, commander in chief of the Russian forces, certain of the safety of his Warsaw army, has abandoned his struggle on the Narva.

Delay Crossing of the Vistula.

here is little change in the other sections of the Polish salient. The Russians still are holding the eastern bank of the Vistula, including Praga, a suburb of Warsaw and at least are delaying the German advance across the river, while in the southeast neither General Von Mackensen nor Arch Duke Joseph Ferdinand has made much progress, being still little more than twenty miles north of the Lublin-Chehn railway which they crossed a week ago. The resistance which the Russians are offering here and that which has delayed General Von Hindenburg in the north have kept the roads clear for the escape of the Russians from the inner encircling operations.

Von Buelow's Army Advances.

In Courland and Kovno, General Von Buelow with 340,000 men, is carrying out sweeping flank movements much on the same lines as those with which General Von Kluck opened the campaign in the west, though in different circumstances and in a much more difficult country. General Von Buelow's left wing, which joins with his separate army operating south of Riga, has made a further advance toward Dvinsk, the Russians retreating across the Jara river, while his right is approaching Kovno, which, according to report, the Russians already are evacuating.

Hereafter General Von Buelow's progress is likely to be slower. Between the Jara and the Dvinsk there are great swamps, while between Kovno and Vilna, his second objective, lies the Niemen river to the south and the Svento and many other streams to the north and east, all of which lend themselves to defense.

Novogeorgievsk Still Holds Out. The beleaguered fortress of Novogeorgievsk, at the junction of the Vistula and Narew rivers, the most western place retained by the Russians, still holds out although the Germans claim to have captured one fort.

There has been some lively fighting in the western theatre but nothing of outstanding importance has been reported.

According to an unofficial report the Italians have rendered themselves masters of the summit of Monte San Michele, dominating Corzila, the fall of which city is expected. This would open the road to Trieste.

In Springfield where a greater Sunday quiet now prevails than ever before known, because of the stringent campaign for law observance that Sheriff Wheeler has inaugurated various novel arguments are being introduced why certain places of business should be kept open. Many butchers in the outlying districts are seeking to have the city ordinances so amended that they may keep their places of business open. They declare that this is necessary as a convenience to the public and say that the closing of saloons on Sunday has made it necessary for them to keep open. In support of this somewhat unusual contention they say that a very great number of people who do not take ice have been in the habit of storing their meat for Sunday in the saloon ice boxes and that the new orders of saloon control has taken this convenience away from them. The butchers may be anxious to have the convenience of their customers cared for but it is more than likely that the main purpose behind the movement for an amended Sunday law is to sell more meat.

It seems that the people of West Virginia were not at all appalled by the decision of the United States Supreme court which declared they must pay a debt of $13,000,000 to Virginia. Instead of being weighed with the responsibility of this burden of debt the state officers immediately decided that the money should properly come from the national treasury.

They will therefore have a bill introduced when congress convenes providing that the federal government shall pay the judgment. This endeavor to shift the burden of debt is based upon the argument that the separation of West Virginia from Virginia was a war measure, and that the step was taken to help preserve the union. It is claimed that West Virginia's loyalty to the union was a potential factor in aiding the northern armies, since the little state controlled an east and west railroad. The debate which will result from the presentation of the proposed bill promises to be of more than usual interest and will no doubt result in the revival of a great deal of war time history.

Robbing Surgery of Shock.
The Gold Medal award of American medicine for this year has been given to Dr. George W. Crile of Cleveland, who is to make an address to physicians at the picnic to be given at Dr. Black's farm home in Cass county next Thursday. The award is made to the American physician who "has performed the most conspicuous and noteworthy service in the domain of medicine and surgery during the past year."

Dr. Crile's most recent work was described by him at the meeting of the American Medical Association in June of this year, and is referred to in the Health Magazine. It concerned the true nature of that mysterious condition, partly physical, partly psychical, known as acute shock, which has puzzled the medical world ever since modern science began to probe into causes.

Dr. Crile shows that shock is not essentially an abnormal condition, but rather an exaggeration of a normal reaction to injury, or to poisons, or to emotion, especially fear.

Dr. Crile's work has been long and painstaking as well as brilliant in its conception and its results, and it has the further merit of having been carried out without the slightest effort at self-exploitation on his part. The announcement of this recognition by the trustees of the American medal was the first that the public at large knew of Dr. Crile, and yet his contribution to medical progress is far greater than that of many well-known men.

Progress in College Education
There were 216,493 students in colleges, universities, and technological schools in 1914, according to the annual report of the Commissioner of Education, just issued. This is an increase of 14,262 over 1913. The bureau's list for 1914 includes 567 institutions, a decrease of 29 over the preceding year. States or municipalities control 93 of the colleges; private corporations control 474. Men still outnumber women in higher education; there were 129,373 men in 1914 and 77,120 women, as compared with 128,644 men and 75,587 women in 1913. Despite rising standards of admission and graduation, college enrollment has more than tripled since 1890.

Receipts during the year totaled $120,579,257, of which $18,422,856 was for endowment. Benefactions to colleges and universities totaled $26,670,017, something over $2,000,000 more than in the year previous. The dominant note of the year in higher education, according to the report, was concentration, both in internal organization and in relation to State authority. The movement in the direction of authoritative classification gained momentum during the year, chiefly through the activities of several voluntary associations. Degrees conferred by colleges and universities included 26,533 baccalaureate, 5,248 graduate, and 749 honorary.

HAVE ENJOYED THEIR
TRIP TO WESTERN COAST

Young Women Write About What They Have Seen During Trip.

Misses Georgie and Ella Hawk, who in company with Mrs. Ann Coultas left for a western tour July 6, report a delightful visit with their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Hawk of Sanger, Calif. Sanger is in the heart of the citrus belt and is right now teeming with interest. Peaches, plums and grapes are being packed for shipment. Many ranchers have begun drying peaches and on the grain ranches wheat and barley are being harvested.

A joy ride on a big harvester was one of the many delightful experiences. Another long to be remembered outing was a trip to Gen. Grant National Park, the home of many of the giant Sequoia or redwoods. The park forests contain the largest, oldest, tallest and most valuable trees in the world. Some of the trees are estimated to be over 5000 years old. Gen. Grant is one of the largest. This tree has a height of 264 feet and a base diameter of 35 feet. Another named California is 260 feet high and 30 feet in diameter. Many others compare favorably in size to the above named. A tunnel 75 feet long through the trunk of a redwood is yet another wonder. The trip was made from Sanger to the Park in Mr. Hawk's Studebaker car a distance of over 60 miles in 1-2 hours.

Sanger is approximately 300 feet above sea level and the park over 5000 feet. The portion of the drive which was taken through the valley afforded a splendid view of a variety of well kept fruit ranches, which included grape, peach, plum, olive, fig, orange and lemon. The mountain trip was beautiful beyond description and taken together afford a trip of unexcelled interest and scenic variety.

While enroute to Sanger the ladies visited at Greeley, Longmont, Boulder and Denver, Salt Lake City, Los Angeles and Pasadena.

The Misses Hawk expect to leave Sanger for San Francisco about Aug. 5 and from there will visit the Sound country, Inland Empire, and Glacier National Park returning home the first of September. Mrs. Coultas expects to remain in California for an extended visit with her son, Mr. Alva Coultas. Mr. Coultas rents two of the ranches owned by his grandfather, Mr. J. N. Campbell. These ranches are in splendid condition and Mr. Coultas expects to harvest a bumper crop.

G. R. Hawk owns a 40 acre fruit ranch 1-2 miles south of Sanger. He says that such a ranch is a better investment than more than twice as much of the best farm land in Illinois. He has no desire to return to Illinois to live but extends greetings to his many friends there.

WITH THE SICK.

J. M. Berry, of Clay avenue, is detained at home by an abscess on his hand.

Mrs. Harry Hall of West Walnut street who has been ill is reported as much improved.

John J. Mallen is again quite ill at his home on Prospect street. Several months ago Mr. Mallen had a serious sick spell but more recently was able to be at his place of business much of the time.

CHILD WELFARE WORK TO BE ENJOINED THIS YEAR

Committee Plans to Interest Still Larger Number of Mothers— Headquarters Will Be Opened Tuesday at 44 North Side Square.

The child welfare work in connection with the Jacksonville chautauqua this year will be somewhat broadened in extent. The general committee which has the matter in charge at a conference held sometime since determined that in addition to the work done heretofore that special effort should be made with reference to under developed children.

Beginning Tuesday of this week members of the committee will have a registration office at the store building, 44 north side the square, and mothers are asked to register their children. An effort is to be made to secure the entrance of twenty-five infants who do not show normal physical development. A number of physicians of the Morgan County Medical society have indicated their willingness to make examination of such children and the examinations will be had at the room on north side of the square where headquarters are to be maintained.

When a mother registers such a child there one or more of the physicians will be called, and will examine the child and fill out a standard score card for the baby as issued by the American Medical society. The child may or may not be taken to the chautauqua tent when the babies in class B are to be exhibited. The babies known as under developed physically will be listed in Class A. The score card as prepared by the American Medical society is very comprehensive and the physician in addition to making a physical examination will inquire somewhat into the history of the child with a view tending to secure some facts as to the mental development. Some facts of family history are to be ascertained and the whole record will be preserved by the Morgan county association. This record will be of value in that it will enable the examining physician to make suggestions to the mother of the child which may affect its future health and development.

As already indicated, the mothers of the twenty-five children, like mothers of the children which may be entered in the other class, will be given admission to the chautauqua on child welfare day. It is the hope that many mothers with their babies can be secured to attend the conference. A special health lecture will be given and it is certain that mothers who attend will hear many helpful health suggestions. The score cards of all the children will afford some points for the speaker to discuss and in addition his talk will be along general health lines.

The time required for scoring children at the chautauqua is such that the girls will be assembled Wednesday, Aug. 25, and the boys Thursday, Aug. 26. The only reason that the twenty-five children in class A are not to be taken to the chautauqua grounds for the scoring is that the examination to be given them is much more comprehensive than the examination for the infants of the B class.

Altogether the work which the committee has outlined is extensive but they believe that the resulting good will justify the efforts which they are to put forth.

The children to be entered must be two years old or under, but an exception will be made of children over two years old who have been entered at former conferences. It is the intention to have the pictures of all children taken but the exact arrangements for this feature have not been yet completed.

The general committee in charge of the welfare conference includes Mrs. D. W. Reid, chairman; Mrs. Alpha Applebee, Miss Josephine Morey, Miss Lucy Mount, Mrs. J. K. C. Pierson, Mrs. Paul Alexander, Miss K. M. Olmsted, Mrs. J. I. Graham, Mrs. Alex. Rabjohn, Miss Clara Belle Hopper, Mrs. A. P. Vasconcellos, Miss Esther Spoons, Mrs. Joseph Gomes, Miss Emma Weller, Mrs. O'Keefe, Mrs. W. T. Wilson, Mrs. Gertrude Richardson, Mrs. Frank Plouer, Mrs. C. B. Massey. The physician who has been notified the committee that they will be able to assist especially in the scoring work for the twenty-five children in class A are Drs. Black, Frank, Bradley, Duncan, Dewey, Milligan, Hardesty, Ogram, Reid, Stacy, Webster, Woltman, Norris, Applebee, Gregory of Jacksonville; Dr. Jones, Woodson; Dr. Perkins, Franklin; Dr. Allyn, Waverly.

Committees are as follows:— Registration—Mrs. Alice Applebee, chairman; Mrs. W. T. Wilson, Miss O'Keefe, Miss Margaret Ayers, Miss Lillian Davis, Miss Marie Miller.

Social Service—Miss Charibel Hopper, chairman; Misses Eva Williams, Bess Breckon, Irene Sandberg; Eugene Hopper, Ruth Badger, Esther Spoons, Josephine Ross, Helen Leck, Lucretia Hutchison.

Chairman—Under-development Records—Miss Olmsted. Chairman Nurses—Miss Lucy Mount.

Members of the last two committees will be published later.

SILOS

Free Money for Silos

Editorial Jacksonville Journal,
July 24, 1915.

"A Minnesota bank has just given material evidence of faith in the silo as an influence for the material up-building of farms by offering to lend a total sum of $15,000 without interest for a certain period to farmers who will use the money in the erection of silos. There are certain conditions of course for the protection of the bank, but the further announcement is made that double the sum mentioned will be appropriated if farmers show the proper interest. The bankers feel that in lending this money without interest for a year or more that they are in a measure casting bread on the water, but feel very sure that it will make them a return later on by the contribution to the established prosperity of the county thus made."

SILOS

Our Advertisement in Courier and Journal March, 1915

"Said a well known silo dealer a few days ago to our Cashier, 'Farmers who contemplate purchasing silos this year ought to get ready now. If any of your farmer customers buys a silo of men and gives me his note therefor, will you cash the note?'"

"Our Cashier replied, 'No, we will not cash the note. We will do better than that. If any of our farmers wants to buy a silo and has not the ready money to pay for it, we will lend him the money at attractive rates.'"

"Our President overheard the conversation and added, 'We will go farther than that. If ANY farmer around here who is making good wants to buy a silo and has not the ready cash to pay for it, we will lend him the money at attractive rates—we could do the same thing to help him buy cows—for we are in position to lend farmers for the legitimate expansion of their business.'"

MAVERICKS

The poor old world's all rumbled up and getting rather groggy, her map's all scratched from countless hosts just keen for war and orgy. All Europe is engaged in war and bent on annihilation, while the dove of peace in Mexico has gone on a long vacation. The president's exchanging notes with all the foreign nations and vows he'll protect us if he fights the whole creation. The Kaiser's troops in Russia are taking an awful risk and we hope that they don't stub their toes when they come to Novogeorgievsk. The poor old Sox are sliding down the pennant ladder fast while the champion Braves of yesterday are a ghost of the gloomy past. The wheat is sprouting in the shock and the farmer is looking glum and vowing if the rain keeps up it will put things on the bum. But in spite of all the war and strife there's always brighter things so let us sing a roundelay as along life's path we swing.

A Journal compositor sent down a proof sheet the other night with a story relative to the government's attitude in the Mexican situation. One sentence referred to the cessation of hostilities between the warring factions of Mexico. The compositor evidently being a peace loving man had made it read "hospitalities." If that word is in the Mexican language the population has forgotten how it sounds the last few months.

The gentleman who dissertated on "Rattles for brushes at the board of education meeting last Monday night certainly knew all about brushes and brushes. His statement about the brushes of American hogs being no good we believe is wrong. The gentleman evidently has never seen the variety grown in Arkansas which is known as the razor back. They are some hogs and the brushes on the backs of most of them are long enough to make a broom and look stiff enough for the broom of a street sweeper.

No dull thud was heard when Warsaw fell. The sound probably was drowned by the thunder of the feet of the retreating Russians.

Fortunately Russia is a big country else the Russians would soon have no place to retreat.

A farmer in Bureau county has a pig with eight feet. It has a litter of pigs and some have six feet and some eight feet. He is likely to create a glut in pickled pig's feet if he raises many hogs.

Head line writers are having their troubles these days and many expressions are being coined to fix in with the war and other happenings. Thus we learn that the Germans are tightening their grip on Warsaw while from another paper we discover that the Russians still keep their grip on the Warsaw. It surely is a case of grips and each one is afraid to let go.

CHILDREN HAVE NARROW ESCAPE WHEN CAR OVERTURNS

Sherman Luttrell Goes in Wrong Road With Seven Little Tots As Passengers.—No Injuries.

Sherman Luttrell, of Waverly, and seven children he was taking a ride in his Ford car, had a narrow escape Saturday night, when the car turned on its side at the old pumping station. Everyone escaped injury, which seems almost a miracle.

Mr. Luttrell was on South East street when a number of children asked for a ride. Being of big heart, he took them all in. A pile of rubbish in the little road going north at the pumping station fooled him and he thought he was going on Morton avenue. The first thing he knew the car was hitting the dump pile at the end of the short road. He applied the brake just as the car broke over the place. The machine swerved on its side and remained in that position while the occupants were thrown to the ground. An examination showed that aside from a good shaking up no one was hurt. The little folks ranged in ages from 1-2 years to 12 years. David Es-tague was called to assist and found the car but slightly injured.

WILL BUILD PAVILLION ON SOUTH SIDE OF LAKE

Nichols Park Board to Construct a New Building Which Will be Used for Dining Room Purpose and in Other Ways.

At a meeting of the Park Board held Saturday evening it was decided to build a pavilion on the south side of the lake at Nichols park. It will also be used for dining purposes and will be a great accommodation for those who are holding picnics at the park, when it is necessary to find shelter from the rain.

The new building will be 40 feet by 80 feet and will have a projection on each side of six feet or more. It will have a red tile roof.

The ladies of the Central Christian church, who had representatives at the meeting, spoke of their work in serving lunches on the ground. They contributed $100 this year for the new building and agreed to pay a similar sum for five consecutive years.

It is planned to have the pavilion so constructed that not all the room will of necessity be occupied by those serving lunches there. In the past the park committee has charged $50 for the concession of the women who have served the meals have spent a considerable sum in securing a temporary building. The result has been that the church society operating the dining hall after paying all expenses has had no profit.

It is estimated that such a building will cost about $500 and it will be of value to the park at other times than during the chautauqua. As it is now, picnickers at the park have no place to go as mentioned above if they are caught in a rain as it is positively against the park rules to serve lunches in the pagoda. It is probable that this year the serving of meals will be operated on the cafeteria plan. It is believed that this will be more economical, occupy less space, and at the same time provide satisfactory service for chautauqua patrons.

PAYS $750,000 FOR 10 WEEKS' USE OF YACHT.

Boston, Aug. 7.—A S. Cochran's schooner yacht Sea Call, which cost her owner $750,000 and has been in commission only ten weeks, is being overhauled by metal experts. Just now the schooner, which is the largest of her type in the world, is very much a white elephant whose skin is said to have been weakened by chemical action. Capt. Dick Sherlock brought her to port ten days ago, instead of starting on a globe-girdling voyage. The underbody of the vessel is plated with metal metal, an alloy containing a considerable portion of nickel. Frames and topsides are of steel, and the combination of the metals is suspected of being responsible for the ship's condition. It may be necessary to plate the entire at an enormous expense of time and money. A naval officer has said that the chemical action might not have occurred had frames and plating been of similar metal. Mr. Cochran owns the Vanitie, built as a candidate for cup defender, and planned to view the Vanitie's races from the Sea Call's deck. Another yacht in the Cochran fleet, the 80-foot power cruiser Minerva, is being used as the Vanitie's tender.

OLD DAIRY TELLS OF STRANGE WEATHER IN 1816

There Was No Summer That Year and Woolen Stockings Were worn in June. Fires Were Allowed to go Out in January.

The weather thus far this season has been a great puzzler to those who claim to be versed in atmospheric conditions. It can almost be said that there has been no real summer weather and those who have gone north to escape the usual "hot spell" would have had no reason to go, if that had been the only excuse. It seems that weather conditions similar to those of the present year, existed in 1816 and a clipping from an old dairy tells of the lack of hot weather in that year.

The year 1816 was known through the United States and Europe as the coldest ever experienced by any person then living. There are persons in New York who have been in the habit of keeping dairies for years and it is from the pages of an old diary begun in 1810 and kept unbroken until 1840 that the following information regarding this year without a summer has been taken:

An Unusual January.
 January was so mild that most persons allowed their fires to go out and did not burn wood except for cooking. There were some cold days, but they were very few. Most of the time the air was warm and spring-like.

February was not cold. Some days were colder than in January, but the weather was about the same, with the exception of a few days.

March, from the first to the sixth was inclined to be windy. It came in like a small lion and went out like a very innocent sheep.

April came in warm, but as the days grew longer the air became colder, and by the first of May there was a temperature like that of winter, with plenty of snow and ice.

May the young buds were frozen dead, ice formed half an inch thick on ponds and rivers, corn was killed and the cornfields were planted again and again, until it became too late to raise a crop. By the last of May in this climate the trees are usually in leaf and flowers are plentiful. When the last of May arrived in 1816 everything had been killed by the cold.

June Very Cold Month.

June was the coldest month of roses experienced in this latitude. Frost and ice were as common as butter cups usually are. Almost everything green was killed; all fruit was destroyed. Snow fell ten inches deep in Vermont. There was a seven inch fall in the interior of New York state, and the same in Massachusetts. There were only a few moderately warm days. Everybody looked, longed and waited for warm weather, but warm weather did not come. It was also dry, very little rain fell.

All summer long the wind blew steadily from the north in blasts, laden with snow and ice. Mothers knit stockings of double thickness for their children and made thick mittens. Planting and shivering were done together and the farmers who worked out their taxes on the country roads were obliged to wear overcoats and mittens. On June 17 there was a fall of snow. A Vermont farmer sent a flock of sheep to pasture on June 16.

Buried in the Snow.
 The morning of the 17th dawned with the thermometer below the freezing point. About 9 o'clock in the morning the owner of the sheep started to look for his flock. Before leaving home, he turned to his wife and jokingly said: "Better start the neighbor's son in!" The middle of June and I may get lost in the snow." An hour after he had left home a terrible snow storm came up. The snow fell thick and fast, and as there was much wind, the fleecy masses piled in great drifts along the windward side of the fences and outbuildings. Night came and the farmer had not been heard of. His wife became frightened and alarmed the neighborhood.

All the neighbors joined the searching party. On the 18th they found him. He was lying in a hollow on the side hill with both feet frozen; he was half covered with snow, but alive. Most of the sheep were lost. A farmer near Tewksbury, Vt., owned a large field of corn which he strived hard to save. He built fires every night. He and his men took turns in keeping up the fire and watching that the corn did not freeze. The farmer was rewarded for his tireless labors by having the only crop of corn in the region.

Ice of Ice on the Fourth.
 July came in with snow and ice. On the 4th of July ice as thick as a window glass formed throughout New England, New York and in some parts of the state of Pennsylvania. Indian corn, which in some parts of the east had struggled through May and June gave up, froze and died.

To the surprise of everybody, August proved the worst month of all. Almost everything green in this country and Europe was blasted with frost. Snow fell at Barnet, 30 miles from London, England, on Aug. 30. Newspapers received from England stated that 1816 would be remembered by the existing generation as the year in which there was no summer. Very little corn ripened in New England. There was great privation, and thousands of persons would have perished in this country were it not for the abundance of fish and wild game they had at that time.

CORRESPONDENT VISITS TURKISH FIRING LINE

SPENDS THREE DAYS WITH OTTOMAN FORCES.

Commanders Allow Associated Press Man to Visit Any Position Desired—Weber Pacha States Situation is Most Favorable for The Turks.

(Associated Press Correspondence.) Kirthia, Gallipoli Peninsula, Turkey, June 21.—To be for three days on the firing line with the Ottoman forces facing the Allied armies in this field of operations is an experience which so far as is known only The Associated Press correspondent has enjoyed up to this time.

Field Marshal Liman von Sanders Pacha had previously indicated that the situation of the Turks had no secrets in its make-up. Essad Pacha, commander of the Ottoman North Group, at this writing, holding in check the British at Ari Bournow, was willing also that the region under his control be visited, and Weber Pacha, commanding the South Group, operating against the Allied forces at Sid-el-Bahr, merely asked what was desired to be seen.

He summoned one of his aides and instructed him to take the correspondent wherever he wanted to go.

Allied Troops Shoot High.

In approaching Weber Pacha's camp it was demonstrated that it was as dangerous behind the modern front as in the firing line. The Allies were giving much attention to a Turkish trench, shot high, missed the trenches, with the result that the bullets by that time almost totally spent, flew over the summit and hummed past the heads of the party.

It was 2:30 p. m. when the camp was reached. General Weber had been taking a nap, but accepted an unintended interruption good-naturedly.

"No objection at all," said Weber Pacha, after he had read a letter from Liman Pacha in which the correspondent was given permission to visit the North and South Groups—provided their commanders had no objection. Then followed the part of the conversation already given.

Situation Most Favorable.
 The situation was most favorable to the Ottoman forces, he continued. Had it not been that the Allied ships literally overwhelmed the peninsula with artillery fire during the landing operations not a single British or French soldier would have set foot ashore. But for days and days the Allied ships had bombarded every square yard on the southern extreme of the peninsula, making it impossible to move the Ottoman troops, without exposing them to almost instant annihilation. But day after day the Turks dug more trenches and improved them. It was that the Allied land forces ran into a wall of Turkish pluck and endurance.

In those days Weber Pacha was in command of the Ottoman forces behind Kum Kale. Here the French tried their luck. General Weber forced them back. The operations against the Asiatic side at Kum Kale were no feat. Weber Pacha has in his possession the "General Order" of the French landing troops. Kum Kale and its neighborhood were to be taken and held at all cost in order that the Turkish batteries in that locality might be captured. It was feared that these batteries would prove a thorn in the side of the Allied troops at Sid-el-Bahr; because they could sweep, and at present do sweep, every day, the positions on the Allied right wing.

French Fail to Hold Kum Kale.

The French failed to hold Kum Kale, because the Turkish batteries mowed down everything on the ground held by the French troops, and the Ottoman infantry waded in with the bayonet in a manner which even the French, no mean performers with the bayonet themselves, could stand. So they re-embarked and went to Sid-el-Bahr, where today, they form the Allied right wing and are almost daily subjected to a galling fire by the Turkish batteries they were to silence. At any rate the British forces form the left wing at Sid-el-Bahr, which is out of effective reach of the Turkish "Kum Kale" batteries.

Early in May, General Weber was transferred to command the South Group of the Ottoman forces of Gallipoli.

About four in the afternoon the first visit to the actual Sid-el-Bahr front was made by The Associated Press correspondent. The route taken led across a stretch of country on which the Allied ships and land artillery have thrown tens of thousands of shot and shrapnel. For miles the earth is scarred with holes and furrows of exploded projectiles. Fragments of steel are almost as common as rocks on a New England field. Within a few square yards one can find parts of projectiles of every calibre and description—from the three-inch shells of the super-dreadnought Queen Elizabeth. Some of the holes torn into the ground are large enough to completely hide several men on horseback. Despite this withering fire the Ottoman troops held their ground.

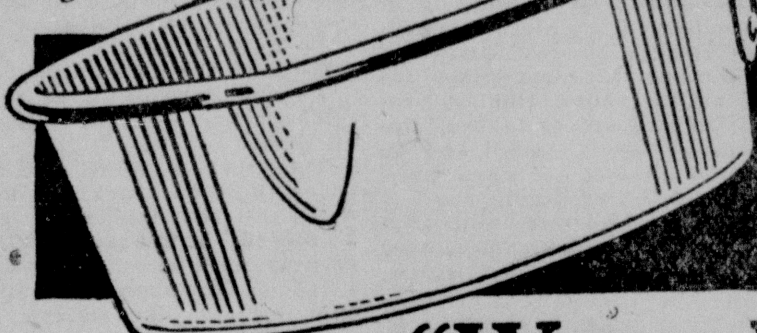

The spirit of the Turkish soldiers in this position was excellent. The men were resting on the ground when the party approached. Instantly they were on their feet. A lusty "merhaba" came from hundreds of strong throats. To an inquiry how they felt, the men replied with a sincere: "Very good sir!" and smiling faces, despite the shrapnel which kept on coming, and the spent Allied rifle balls which hummed above their heads.

ing faces, despite the shrapnel which kept on coming, and the spent Allied rifle balls which hummed above their heads.

Not Afraid of Allies.

"We're not afraid of the English and French," said several to whom the question implied was put. "Now comes a part of the approach which is very dangerous," said the officer who acted as guide. "We must take that at a smart pace. The British infantry can't see us, but every bullet which goes high lands on that spot."

Off he started at a canter followed by the others. The road now led at a right angle to one of the British trenches and bullets whizzed past every instant. Meanwhile some other British battery had taken up the fire and several shrapnel increased the "interest" of the party, which, nevertheless, kept close to a clay bank and continued on its way to the front. More reserve troops were passed and more "merhabas" were heard. Everywhere smiling faces and eyes grateful for the recognition of a salute.

The ride to the actual firing line continued under a shrapnel and shell fire which at times became rather critically uncomfortable. Wounded men were being met now. Most of them walked, a few were carried on stretchers—all were well bandaged, as an inspection established.

"Here is another danger zone," said the officer-guide, and sped off. This time the ground had to be covered at full speed. Through low shrub and across rocks he led the way. When the party halted in a dry river bed, the trenches of the Turks had been reached.

Rest Behind Embankment.

In the shelter of a high embankment rested more Turkish soldiers. Most of them were men on furlough. They had been making a portable barbed-wire entanglement known as "Spanish horse." A few of the men had come from the trenches for water, others for the evening meal. The same good humor was met in their case, though few of the men had slept the previous night, owing to an attack they had made on the British in front of them.

The correspondent was received by a captain and his sergeant, presiding geniuses of a machine gun section. Coffee was offered in a little wooden shack which the two inhabit. The attack on the previous night had been severe, said the captain. The British had thrown hand grenades, but the Turks had occupied part of the trench and were still holding it.

"I am against your going into the trenches this afternoon," continued the captain. "The shrapnel fire is too severe. Come back tomorrow." Just before sundown the party left for another section of the Turkish line. The artillery fire on both sides had become more severe; machine guns began to be heard and the bullets of one of them splashed into a clay bank nearby.

"One of the oddest things we have around here is the village of Kirthia," said the officer-guide. "The Allies have almost razed it with shell and fire and since then they have tried innumerable times to take it by assault. Do you want to go there?"

To reach Kirthia one had to traverse the broad ridge of a low hill, swept by the shells of the Allied batteries.

"When we get to that bush over there break into a gallop," cautioned the officer. "Ride for all you are worth until you get into the communication trench." This advice was followed, and the trench was reached.

THE ROOSTER.

George Fitch.

A rooster is a feathered alarm clock who does the heavy posing while a hen lays an egg. Later on he takes all the credit for the job. He corresponds to the man who comes proudly downtown when his ninth child is born to get his wife another washing machine.

The rooster is handsome and dashing and is much admired by his family. He couldn't be more popular if he were the tenor soloist in a comic opera company. This is because he does nothing but pose.

The rooster is much wiser than some men. They cross industriously and then in an evil moment attempt to perform the cruel "ha ha" by the bystanders. But the rooster crows and refrains with great firmness from doing anything else. Thus he is never exposed and in time acquires more wiles than a pugilist. A hen who is raising twelve chickens and scratching for all of them is as proud of the rooster who is watching her hustle as a wife of the husband who can lick all creation but is going to stick around before starting anything until she has prepared one more square meal with trimmings having stood the grocery off for the same.

This is why there are so few roosters, comparatively speaking. A rooster like a poet is most highly appreciated by humanity after he is dead.

CUBS MAKE CLEAN SWEEP OF SERIES WITH BRAVES

CY WILLIAMS' TRIPLE BREAKS UP FINAL GAME.

Chicago Center Fielder Knocks Two Runs in, Tying the Score and Brings in Winning Tally on Standridges Perfect Squeeze Play.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—A timely triple by Cy Williams broke up the final game of the Boston-Chicago series today, Chicago making a clean sweep of the series. Today's win was the fifth straight for Chicago. The score was 3 to 2.

With the score 2 to 0 against them in the last half of the ninth Zimmerman and Murray singled and Williams followed with his triple to right, tying the score. Hughes replaced Tyler and Archer fanned. McLarry was purposely passed and on Standridge's perfect squeeze play, Williams scored the winning run.

Capt. Evers, who was reinstated after his three day suspension, scored both of the runs for the visitors. Score:

Pittsburgh, Aug. 7.—The Philadelphia Nationals suffered a set back today, being shut out by Pittsburgh in both games of a double-header pitched 9 to 0 and 6 to 0. Mameaux pitched the first game and was never in danger of being scored on while Mayer and Baumgartner were hit hard. In the second game Harmon kept the five hits of the Phillies scattered. Rixey and Tineup were hit hard and timely by the home team. Scores:

Brooklyn tied the score in the sixth but in the next inning Huggins turned a trick which won the game for St. Louis. With the bases full and one out, he called to Pitcher Appleton to throw the ball to him at the third base coaching line. Appleton threw it Huggins dodged and J. Miller scored from third base. St. Louis beat New York in the first game of a double header Saturday and tied the second game in ten innings at 4 to 4. Wild Bill Donovan made his first appearance as a pitcher since assuming the management of the Yanks. In the first game Austin made five hits in five times up, including a home run a triple and three singles. He started the second game with a safety making it six hits in six times up.

The Pirates scuttled the Phillies' pennant craft Saturday. Fred Clark and his fellow buccanniers were extremely bloodthirsty and made four Philadelphia batters walk the plank. The Phils failed to get a run across in either game. It was a hard blow to the Phillies especially as the Cubs again beat the Braves.

RESTA WINS CHICAGO SPEEDWAY AUTO RACE

SETS NEW WORLD'S COMPETITIVE RECORD FOR 100 MILES.

Cooper Fights It Out With the Italian Throughout and Gets Second Place — Resta averages 102.85 Miles an Hour and Cooper 101.41 Miles.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 7.—Dario Resta, driving a French car at the rate of 102.85 miles an hour, won the Chicago speedway 100 mile race today. In so doing he established a new world's competition record for the distance. The finish:

- 1—Dario Resta—58:34; 102.85.
- 2—Earl Cooper—59:29; 101.41.
- 3—Bob Burman—1:01:22; 96.55.
- 4—Harney Oldfield—lugged at 96 miles.

The previous record was established on the same track by Porporato last June. His time was 1 hour and 28 seconds, at the rate of 99.05 miles an hour. This was the fastest century of a 100 mile race that day but that contest, like today's went to Resta.

Cooper in an American car, fought it out today with the Italian throughout, to the delight of a large crowd. The American led in the second, fourth, ninth, fifteenth, twentieth, thirty-seventh, thirty-eighth and thirty-ninth laps around the two-mile oval. His lead was most inspiring to his partisans in the 37th lap when Resta took 26 seconds for his first change of tires, but two laps later Cooper lapped in with a front tire in shreds and lost 37 seconds. Thus the fourth lap found Resta again in the lead and he could not be overtaken. Burman managed to take second place in the fourteenth and the eighteenth laps. Oldfield had been unable to remedy carburetor trouble and did not consider himself a real contender when he started.

CORRESPONDENT VISITS

TURKISH FIRING LINE

ed just in time to escape two shells, compliments of the ever-alert Allied gunners. Their range was poor, but a marked improvement was all too noticeable as an attempt was made to survey the contested terrain from a point from which it was visible in its entirety.

Girthing Wrecked By Shell Fire.
Kirthia, once a flourishing Greek settlement, presented a melancholy spectacle. The Allied shells had wrecked every house and fire had consumed most of the debris. A few starved cats were its only denizens.

One of the streets of the place is still swept by the rifle fire from a British trench. The party advanced as far as this street and then decided to return, instead of visiting the Turkish positions some 1,000 yards south of the last house.

There was a surprise in store for the party on the return. Just before the danger zone was approached the officer recommended that one man at a time cross the summit at full gallop. The interpreter, an Arab, went first, the correspondent was second, the two riding about 300 yards apart. Evidently the Allied gunners guessed that the men, who, half-an-hour ago, had raced down the slope, would return that way, and were ready. One after another the shrapnel shrieked over head or burst close by, but shelter was reached in safety.

"That was experience enough for one afternoon," said General Weber that evening at dinner. "I must confess that the Allied artillery is very very diligent. Just why they go to the trouble of wasting shells on individuals, I don't know. No doubt, they have plenty of them."

During dinner, General Weber went over the major features of the campaign of the Allies against the Dardanelles. His praise of the Turkish soldiers was unstinted.

"They are probably the most frugal of men," he said, "and uncompromising to a fault. I am beginning to understand the military successes of the Osmanli when they first came to Europe. The Turkish soldier is satisfied with a piece of dry bread and a little water, when he can get anything else, he is remarkably immune from disease, inured to hardship and almost proof-proof. He has nerves, of course, but I am sure they do not bother him. His indifference to the possibility of dying any instant is due, I believe, to his fervent adherence to his religion. The Mohammedan, generally, is very pious, and to him a life hereafter is much more of a reality than to most others. To be as sure of eternal bliss as the average Turkish soldier is, makes dying easy."

Turks Prefer Bayonet Work.
The Turkish soldier prefers bayonet work to rifle fire, because in this manner he gets at his antagonist without fear. There is an exhilaration to man-to-man fighting which all other phases of combat lack.

The second day's visit at the front started with a lively cannonade shortly after daybreak. A run through the fire zone, or bent low behind the trench parapets, and the advance trench was reached. On a low earth-bank running the length of the trench, under the parapet sat many men. Their rifles stood beside them.

Machine guns were passed. Little dugouts for officers and men were noticed. Here and there a fatigue squad was busy improving the trench. Some men were mending their uniforms, some were smoking, several were writing, while others passed the time playing with pebbles. All these men were waiting for, and ready for, an attack, for which an English officer in the trench 200 yards away might at that very instant be issuing the orders.

"Just waiting for them," said a Turkish non-commissioned officer of the 19th infantry of the line. "We aren't afraid. Let them come!"

Over the trench crept a British aeroplane, the sunlight shining through its canvas wings. The machine was at an elevation of at least 3,000 feet. Would the men in it throw steel darts or bombs? Those in the trench were not interested in either possibility. There is lots of room outside the ditch, they said.

"By looking through this hole, you will see the British trenches," said the officer guide. "But don't look too long. They have mighty good spy glasses on the other side."

Between the Turkish and British trenches could be seen a 200-yard-wide patch of sun-dried grass with black dots here and there—the dots were read men awaiting burial which the rigors of modern trench war denied them. Beyond the yellow patch and its black dots ran a low red line—the parapet of the British trench. Against this parapet rested more dead men.

Visit Artillery Control Station.
After the distribution of a trench meal, consisting of the Turkish "pillaf"—mutton cooked with rice—an artillery control station was visited. A long communication trench had to be negotiated before the station was reached. Again the ever-watching British gunners fired at three lone men.

The officer in charge of the station asked the visitor to observe the fire of the Turkish batteries. It was excellent. In a trench of the Allies some unusual activity had been observed. With both eyes glued to the lower end of a periscope glass the visitor watched. The officer gave distance and command over the telephone and a minute later a piece nearby barked. Seconds elapsed and then the shell exploded in the trench in question.

A ride in the hot noon sun brought the correspondent to a neighboring camp. Lunch was served there and after that the clean, white sand of a river bed invited a rest which ended in sleep—and a sudden awakening by a detonation nearby that seemed to rock the earth. A British aeroplane had dropped a large bomb which exploded about 50 yards from the sleepers, killing eight horses and wounding two men.

In the stillness which followed the explosion the faint hum of a motor could be heard. Directly above hovered the aeroplane, its operator perhaps ready to let another bomb drop.

NOTABLE BIRTHDAYS TODAY.

August 8.
Lieut.-General Nelson A. Miles, U. S. A., retired, the military hero of American boys, is 76 years old today. His imposing figure retains its military poise, and the famous warrior declares he is still young enough for battle. Over forty years of service of the most valuable kind did he give his country. Beginning with the early days of the Civil War when he won promotion by his conspicuous daring and ability to handle large commands, through the long campaigns of that war, then his difficult service against the Indians, his observations abroad, and finally as commander-in-chief of the army during the Spanish war, General Miles fought his way by sheer worth. He is the first man to hold the highest position in the United States army who did not train at West Point. At the age of 23 he was Colonel of his regiment. He was wounded three times, once so desperately that he had to be sent home. His work in breaking up the Indian bands under Sitting Bull, Crazy Horse, Geronimo and other chiefs added to his fame. For eight years before his retirement in 1903, he was first in command of the army. General Miles was born in Westminster, Mass., August 8, 1839. He went to a district school, and then took a clerkship in Boston. The outbreak of war caused him to throw up his pursuits to join the army, and his achievements were acknowledged by promotion and by recognition of congress.

TWO MINDS THAT DID AS ONE.

When Dr. Anna Shaw and Miss Anthony Lectured Together.

Writing of her lectures for suffrage with Susan B. Anthony, Dr. Anna Howard Shaw says in the Metropolitan Magazine:

We traveled and lectured together so constantly that each of us developed an almost uncanny knowledge of the other's mental processes. At any point of either's lecture the other could pick it up and carry it on—a fortunate condition, as it sometimes became necessary to do this. Miss Anthony was subject to contractions of the throat, which for the moment caused a slight strangulation. On such occasions—of which there were several—she would turn to me and indicate her helplessness. Then I would repeat her last sentence, complete her speech and afterward make my own.

The first time this happened we were in Washington, and Aunt Susan stopped in the middle of a word. She could not speak; she merely motioned to me to continue for her and left the stage. At the end of the evening a prominent Washington man who had been in our audience remarked to me confidentially:

"That was a nice little play you and Miss Anthony made tonight—very effective indeed."

For an instant I did not catch his meaning or the implication in his knowing smile.

"Very clever, that strangling bit, and your going on with the speech," he repeated. "It hit the audience hard."

"Surely," I protested, "you don't think it was a deliberate thing—that we planned or rehearsed it?"

He stared at me incredulously.

"Are you going to pretend," he demanded, "that it wasn't a put up job?"

I told him he had paid us a high compliment and that we must really have done very well if we had conveyed that impression, and I finally convinced him that we not only had not rehearsed the episode, but that neither of us had known what the other meant to say. We never wrote out our speeches, but our subject was always suffrage or some ramification of suffrage, and naturally we had thoroughly digested each other's views.

LIFE ON A SUBMARINE.

There Are No Comforts, and Sleep Is Almost Impossible.

Speaking of life on a submarine, one of Uncle Sam's naval officers stationed on one of these under sea terrors says:

"Every minute the men are in the submarine means the risk of pneumonia and tuberculosis. The entire inside of the boat sweats like a pitcher of ice water on a hot day. Before we are on it three hours our clothes are soaked, and they stay that way. We have absolutely no heat, which means that the boat is the temperature of the outside air. Sometimes we nearly freeze. The doctors say that the men on a submarine never sleep; they merely become unconscious for brief intervals. The air, the odors from the machinery, the constant vibration and the intense strain under which you labor make sleep an impossibility."

"In a storm, when we have to seal up, the air gets worse than anything you can imagine. There are eighteen men and two officers in one of our boats, and at any moment any one of the twenty may cause the death of all the rest. There is no room for mistakes. The space in which the men live is fifty feet long and about ten feet wide. I can stand upright if I pick my place, but most of the time my shoulders are bent. There are no bunks; we all spread our mattresses on an iron deck. The dining room consists of four electric hot plates. Nothing in the nature of a spark is allowed below decks, but we can heat up coffee on the hot plates and occasionally fry things. We can't smoke, and the vibration of the engine makes it impossible to read or even play cards, so when we are not working there's nothing for us to do but sit on the floor and look at each other."—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

The Human Brain.

Our brains are seventy year clocks. The angel of life winds them up once for all, then closes the case and gives the key into the hand of the angel of the resurrection. Tick-tack, tick-tack, go the wheels of thought. Our will cannot stop them. They cannot stop themselves. Sleep cannot still them. Madness only makes them go faster. Death alone can break into the case, and, seizing the ever swinging pendulum which we call the heart, silence at last the clicking of the terrible escapement we have carried so long beneath our wrinkled foreheads.—Holmes.

Matter of Precedence.

A discussion once arose in the University of Cambridge whether doctors at law or doctors in medicine should hold precedence. The chancellor asked whether the thief or the hangman preceded at an execution. Being told that the thief usually took the lead, "Well, then," said the chancellor, "let the doctors in law have the precedence and let doctors in medicine be next in rank."—London Standard.

Insulted.

"Why did you strike this man?" asked the court.

"He told me to use my head," pleaded the prisoner.

"Well, that's no crime, is it?"

"But, your honor, I was crushing stone at the time."—Buffalo Express.

Suspicious.

Mrs. Bilton—I think you're the dearest, sweetest man that ever was! Bilton (suspiciously)—Were you at some millinery opening today?—Judge.

AUTOMOBILE NOTES.

The rumor to the effect that The Haynes Automobile company of Kokomo, Ind., is going to move its plant to Lackawanna, N. Y., a suburb of Buffalo, is erroneous, according to A. G. Seiberling, general manager of the company. This report has been published recently in many papers and notwithstanding the fact that it is utterly without foundation, it seems to have gained immediate credence in motor circles.

Kokomo, Ind., is the original home of the Haynes. In the year 1893, at Kokomo, Elwood Haynes built the first gasoline automobile ever built in America. Since that time, twenty-three years ago, the Haynes cars have always been built in Kokomo and there is no prospect of any future removal of the plant to Buffalo or elsewhere.

A knowledge of the building operations now under way at the Haynes plant in Kokomo would make the fallacy of such a rumor obvious to the most casual observer. Since the middle of May two big circus tents on a plot of ground east of the main factory building have been temporarily housing a few of the departments until the completion of the new buildings. The final inspection of the cars before they go to the shipping platform now takes place in these tents. Part of the enormous supply of rough material is also stored out under canvas in order to give more room for the other departments.

Motor Car Progress.

Experience in motor car manufacturing teaches that eternal caution is the price of success. Expediency walks constantly at the elbow of every maker of motor cars, whispering "Do this" or "Do that" and he is wise and fortunate who turns a deaf ear to all save performance that is proven in service.

That motor car that exists on the draughtsman's drawing board or in the designer's fancy may prove a fragile delusion in the rough hands of Mr. Average User. Blueprints are beautiful and alluring and inventors are often persuasive, looking at the one or listening to the other, the motor car manufacturer must forever keep in mind the great fact that ruts and hills and rough roads are relentless, and that inexperience back of the steering wheel constitute a factor that must be met with the closest of reckoning.

Progress in motor car building is not progress unless it is of proven worth. The next step is unsafe until the last step is of established wisdom. Past performance is vastly more important than future promise.

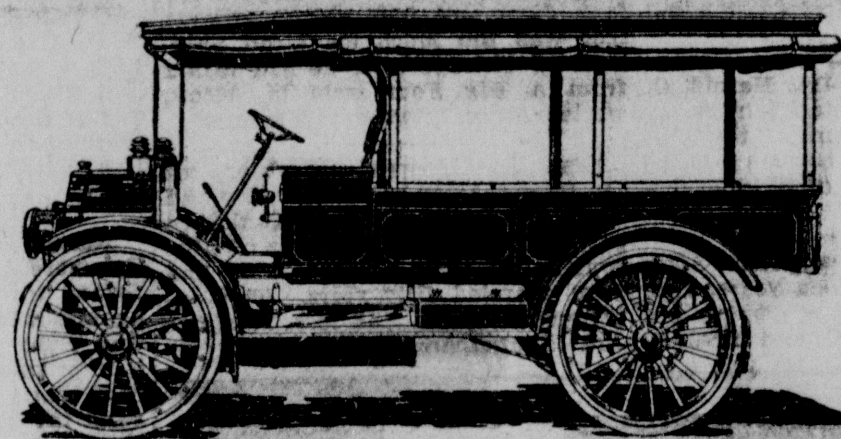

Two years ago the first Sixes of the Buick Motor company were placed upon the motor market. At that time they knew the Six was right in theory, and exhaustive tests convinced them it was right in fact. Service is the real test of a motor car and since the verdict of their users was overwhelming they now offer it exclusively.

The new Oakland six-cylinder touring car, with overland valves in the motor is out.

The new car is to sell for $795. It differs from previous Oakland practice in the overhead valve motor cars, and in the absence of the nicked curved top radiator. The low price of the car, with the prestige of the line, has caused large inquiry.

The Pathfinder line now includes a twin six of which 3,500 are to be manufactured this season. Its price has been reduced materially from the price of last season, being $1,975. The wheel base of the twin six has been lengthened from 92.2 inches to 120 inches and 6 inches more space is thus provided in the tonneau. The new car has the cantilever springs, which the Pathfinder company claims to have introduced into American automobile practice. "The Pathfinder does not claim to have devised the cantilever spring, but simply to have been first in America."

What do you think of Larry Doyle? Larry has not been hitting well the last two seasons, though he has been a valuable asset to the Giants on account of his hits being always timely. This year after getting a poor start Larry got to going and this morning according to last averages compiled he has maulled his way to the top of the National league. Doyle is swatting at the rate of 33c. The place man is 327 so Larry can't let any grass grow under his feet. His many friends here hope he will stay in front and be the champion batter of the old league when the bell rings in October.

EXPERIENCE OF BLOOMINGTON WITH ASPHALT PAVEMENTS

City Engineer Discusses Disadvantages of Material in Letter to J. N. Kennedy—Favors Brick with Cement Filler.

The experience of Bloomington with asphalt as a paving material is subject of a letter from Elmer Folsom to J. N. Kennedy of this city, who had written ex-mayor Edward Holland for information on pavement matters. Mr. Holland referred Mr. Kennedy's inquiry to Mr. Folsom, who for fourteen years has been city engineer of Bloomington. The letter follows:

"Bloomington has laid about seven miles of asphalt pavement within the past 15 years; about half of it on concrete foundation, the other half on old brick pavements. The first three streets were of the former class; one has been entirely re-surfaced once and is in bad condition. The other two have been nearly all re-surfaced and are in such bad condition that they will have to be repaved soon. The asphalt laid on old brick pavements has proved still worse, and invariably, after several years use the asphalt begins to shove and wrinkle and wear into holes, so that extensive repairs are necessary every year, and more than half the time they are in an unsightly condition and rough for traffic.

"One of the difficulties encountered in laying asphalt in Illinois is due to the great difference in temperature between summer and winter. Asphalt should be fluxed with reference to the climate. A warm climate requires less oil. As the temperature in this locality varies about 140 degrees, it is almost impossible to get a mixture that will not crack in winter or run in summer.

"As to brick pavements, great improvements have been made in their construction and material in the past few years, so that now, if properly laid, are fairly satisfactory. The perfect pavement has not yet been discovered. All known types have their weak points—their merits and demerits. The concrete foundation and well made modern paying brick are about all that could be desired; but the methods of filling the cracks are all more or less unsatisfactory. Sand, tar and asphalt fillers do not protect to any extent the edges of the brick, and under heavy traffic the bricks chip and wear at the edges. Cement grout filler protects the edges better, but more or less trouble is sure to develop from expansion and contraction, besides, with this filler the pavement will be more noisy under any but rubber tired traffic.

"On the whole it is my opinion that brick pavement, with cement filler for heavy traffic, and asphalt filler for light traffic or when noise is an important consideration, is the most satisfactory pavement so far devised for this locality.

"The average cost here of asphalt has been about $2.00 per square yard with a life of less than 15 years. The modern brick pavement costs about $1.90 per sq. yd. with a probable life of 25 years or more.

"Yours truly,
Elmer Folsom."

ELECTION ORDINANCE HAS BEEN DRAFTED.

An ordinance has been drafted for the election to vote on going back to the aldermanic form of government. The ordinance was completed Saturday afternoon and will be presented to the city council at the regular meeting Monday morning. No definite date has been set for the holding of the election. It is thought, however, that it will be held some time in September.

RETURNS FROM WEST.

Mr. and Mrs. George F. Haigh of Hardin avenue, are a home, after a very enjoyable visit to various points on the Pacific coast. They were gone four weeks and besides attending the exhibitions at San Francisco and at San Diego they spent several days in Los Angeles. They traveled several hundred miles in autos visiting at various points of interest, among them being the town of Piquana, in Lower California, and saw where a gambling fest was in progress in an enclosed plaza. It was a small town and had bull fights as a weekly amusement.

PROPERTY SOLD.

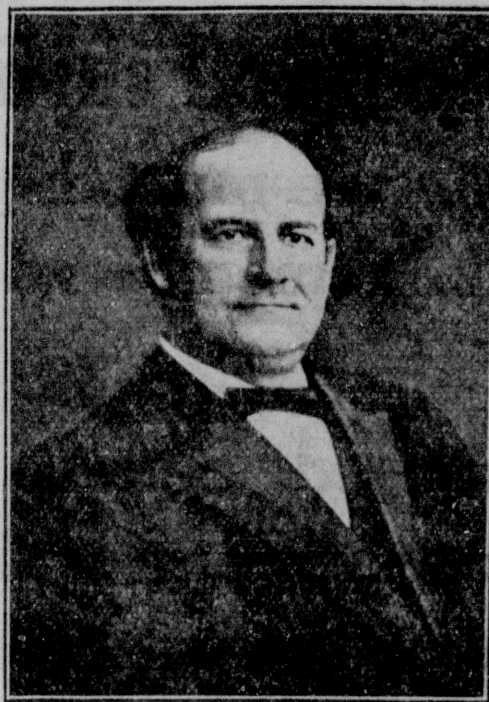

Capt. John E. Wright yesterday sold at the court house several vacant lots near the corner of Allen and Lafayette avenue to the estate of the late Bert E. Taylor. The lots were purchased by U. J. Hale at a price of $1,000.

BRYAN DAY WILL BE TWENTY-FIVE CENTS

SINGLE ADMISSION TO JACKSONVILLE CHAUTAUQUA TO BE UNIFORM THROUGHOUT TEN DAYS.

Directors Modify Announcement in Connection With Single Admission Prices for Chautauqua Week—Comply With Terms of Bryan Contract—Explanatory Letter From Charles W. Bryan.

Upon receipt of the telegram, closing the engagement of William J. Bryan for the opening day of the Jacksonville chautauqua, the chautauqua directors decided to make the price of single admission tickets for Bryan day 50c and an announcement to this effect was made. Subsequently, the written contract for the Bryan engagement was received, which contained a provision that the single admission charge for the Bryan lecture must not be greater than 50c (preferably 25c), and that if 50c was charged for Mr. Bryan, then there must be at least three other lectures for which the single admission was 50c.

In view of the stipulations in the Bryan contract, the chautauqua directors have decided to make the single admission for all days of the chautauqua one price, namely, 25c. Single admission tickets, therefore, for all the chautauqua attractions, for adults on all days will be 25c; children, 8 or 12, 15c; children under 8 when accompanied by an adult, will be admitted free.

The following letter received from Mr. Chas. W. Bryan is in further explanation of this announcement:

from the charge that would be made.

I know with this explanation you will understand why we could not permit that the additional charge be made to those who desired to hear him unless you included enough other attractions in the same class to protect Mr. Bryan. We will therefore request that you make either the admission charge 25 cents the same as you are charging for the other attractions or advance the price on three of the other attractions to the same figure that you would expect to charge for Mr. Bryan. We feel sure that you will appreciate our position when you give the matter second thought.

Trusting that you will have a successful chautauqua and that Mr. Bryan's address comes up to the expectations of your people, I am,
Very truly yours,
Chas. W. Bryan.

COFFEE ROASTING.

Unless families can afford the best standard brands of coffee and are situated where they can obtain this when it is freshly roasted they seldom have this delicious beverage at its best.

Some years ago it was quite a custom for particular housekeepers to buy mats of green coffee and roast it as needed in the home kitchen. This practice should be revived as the work is not arduous and the results are delightful. Not only has freshly roasted coffee more strength flavor and aroma than that which has been roasted a few days, but it is more economical. The green coffee sells for a third less in quantities than the roasted. It improves with keeping up to the time it is browned and less is needed for the brewing.

There is no need to give arguments in favor of home roasted coffee, for I believe it is only the labor of preparing it and the attention required during the process that is an objection.

Perhaps the task is not so hard as you think it after all. I have success when I use an ordinary baking pan and a moderately hot oven. It is not necessary to toss and turn the beans continually; they only need an occasional stirring. About thirty-five minutes is sufficient time to roast two pounds of coffee. The heat should be increased as the coffee begins to color.

Before packing the coffee into a jar, or can, let it cool thoroughly. Some persons think it should be ground before it cools, but I think much strength is lost if the beans are crushed while hot.

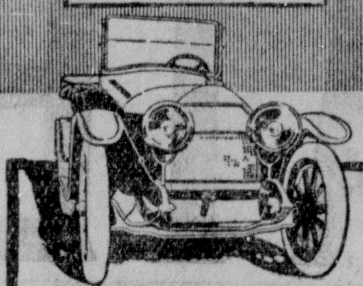

It is almost impossible to find a coffee roaster small enough to use at home, but if you are real coffee lovers it will pay you to make one.

Perhaps you have an unused gasoline or oil-stove oven. A very small sized one will do. Make a hole at each side. Now find a sugar canister or any tin can that will fit lengthways across the oven. On the ends have a tinner solder strong metal points to fit into the holes in the oven. To one of these fasten a handle to turn the can by.

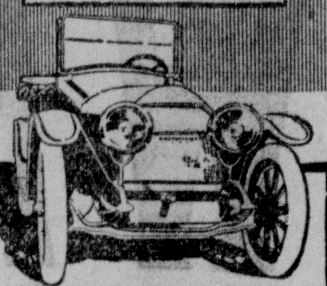

Seven years used to be the allotted time for coffee to ripen in storage house before it was roasted, but now "young" coffee, as the green beans are called is old and various devices are resorted to in order to give it the desired ripe flavor. If you decide to roast your own berries, buy what dealers call old Government Java in quantity and age it yourself in a dry place.

Grind only one day's supply at a time; always make it with freshly boiled water and you will feel richly repaid when you drink it. Tomorrow—The Tea Kettle and Tea Accessories.

Bridgeton, N. J.—"I want to thank you for the wonderful good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered very much from a female trouble. I had bearing down pains, was irregular and at times could hardly walk across the room. I was unable to do my housework or attend to my baby I was so weak. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did me a world of good, and now I am strong and healthy, can do my work and tend my baby. I advise all suffering women to take it and get well as I did."—Mrs. FANNIE COOPER, R. F. D., Bridgeton, N. J.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, etc.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

ZEPPELIN'S FIRST FLIGHT WAS AT ST. PAUL.

Beginning of Airship Idea was Fifty Two Years Ago—"Count Steiner's" Recollections.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 7.—Count Ferdinand von Zeppelin, the air ship inventor, has admitted that he was the "Count Steiner" who experimented with balloon flight in St. Paul, in 1863. His first aerial trip, he now admits, was made on August 9, 1863, at St. Paul, and it was while he was sailing aloft on that initial trip that the possibilities of aerial navigation and aerial warfare fixed themselves in his mind. He returned to Germany and spent his life and fortune trying to accomplish the endless task of overcoming the gravitational winds and weather.

Zeppelin met with his difficulties here before he was able to ascend into the clouds. But on Aug. 9, with no less distinguished a guest than the daughter of the Governor, he made his successful flight. Alexander Ramsey, the war governor of Minnesota, was to have journeyed with him, but was too busy that day. So that little Marion Ramsey was his substitute. Miss Ramsey is now Mrs. C. E. Furness of St. Paul, and she recalls the balloon ascension.

"I can remember making the flight," she says, "but did not realize until now that the pilot was so distinguished a person as Count Von Zeppelin. I enjoyed my trip and was glad that mother was not there to stop me from going up."

St. Paul at the time was a frontier town, and gas was a scarce article. The balloon he used was owned by an army officer who was experimenting with it as a captive balloon. Zeppelin's determination finally secured enough gas to give the buoyancy for a flight. The thrill of adventure was then in his veins, for the Count was then only 25 years old. While sailing over the forests and lakes, he conceived the idea of the dirigible, the application of power to directing the movements of gas air-ships. Instead of drifting with the breezes, he believed it possible to follow a course if the proper power machine could be produced. Later on, when the gas engine was perfected, the Count was able to secure the needed power, and in his half century of experimenting since his flight he has demonstrated his theories to be entirely practical.

The Count, though 77 years old now, is hoping to see the day when one of his pet Zeppelins will cross the Atlantic, and nothing would please him more than to be at the helm and pilot the craft to St. Paul, where he obtained his inspiration.

HAVE RETURNED FROM WEST.

Mr. and Mrs. William Huffman returned Saturday evening from an extended visit in the west. They left here seven weeks ago and made stops at various cities enroute to California. In California they visited both expositions and took all of the side trips to the many interesting places with which California abounds. On the return trip Mr. and Mrs. Huffman stopped in Chicago where they spent ten days. Mr. Huffman saw a number of baseball games while there, among them the White Sox and New York and the Cubs and Giants.

WILL GIVE SOCIAL.

The domestic science committee of the Pastors' Aid of the First Baptist church, will serve ice cream and cake on the church lawn Thursday afternoon, Aug. 12, beginning at 5 o'clock.

LOUIS A. CAIN RECEIVES SEVERE ELECTRIC SHOCK.

Louis A. Cain of J. H. Cain and Sons, had a narrow escape from death in the basement of the Brook mill Saturday forenoon when a 300-volt current passed through his body, throwing him some fifteen feet and rendering him unconscious. He was in the act of turning on a light and touched a wire. Mr. Cain was taken to Our Savior's hospital and advised by his physician, Dr. F. A. Norris, to remain in bed. Recovering rapidly from the effect of the shock, he was able to be down town in the afternoon and evening, and beyond a few bruises, was little the worse.

Mr. Cain was with the workman who had been clearing the basement of water. Most of the water from the recent flood had been pumped out and the men were rinsing out the mud and sediment.

CAPT. KIRBY HAS PASSED
HIS SEVENTY-EIGHTH BIRTHDAY

Is Old Only in Years — Cheerful Spirit He Contributes to Good Health—Saw Active War Service in Cavalry.

Friday was the 78th birthday of Capt. W. A. Kirby, who has long been in the mail service. Possibly the active outdoor life that Capt. Kirby has led has had something to do with his health. Not long since he remarked to a friend that he had never had a headache in his life, and the same statement would apply to most of the other ailments which are common to so many people. In addition to good health, one of most marked characteristics of Capt. Kirby is his cheerfulness, and probably this should be reckoned as very closely related to his good health. Through all the passing years those who have known him intimately or casually have had occasion to comment on his unfailing good humor. In every life all days are not marked by sunshine, but Capt. Kirby has followed the even tenor of his way, and as they say of "shut-ins" sometimes, he "has always looked out upon the world over a garden of flowers."

Thus he has gone along attending to the everyday duties of life in a faithful and efficient way and has relegated cares and troubles which might come to the background. The contribution which such a life makes to the general welfare is marked indeed, and Capt. Kirby is a fine example of the gladness there should be in living. During the days of the war he saw active service for a long period. Along with a great many other Morgan county men he enlisted in Company G of the First Missouri cavalry. That so many Morgan county men enlisted in this company was due to the fact that the Illinois quota at the time was full and the only opportunity that these men, anxious to perform active service for their country, had of enlistment was in the name of some other state.

So it happened that on Aug. 19, 1861, members of Co. G under the command of Capt. Barbour Lewis formed in line in Central park and then marched to the Washburn station where they took the train for Springfield. From that city they rode on flat cars to St. Louis and then to Jefferson barracks. They did scouting duty in various parts of Missouri for some time and altogether took a very active part in war maneuvers. The battle of Pea Ridge was one of the most important engagements of the war in which they had part. Capt. Kirby served in this company as an orderly sergeant and later became captain of a company in the Sixth Missouri cavalry. Serving with the command of these troops he was no longer associated with the company in which he originally enlisted. The Sixth and Seventh Missouri saw active service all through the war and it was not until after peace had been declared that Capt. Kirby was mustered out. Among the Morgan county men who enlisted in Co. G were J. W. Melton, C. Riggs Taylor, John E. Wright, George W. Moore, W. H. Jordan, George W. Van Zandt, George Glenn, Henry Maul, I. T. Jones and Joseph Burnett.

THE RIVER IS HIGH.
The river is so high at Naples that it is impossible for automobiles to travel that way to Valley City and cross. Instead they must meet the ferry boat about two miles and a half north of Valley City near the point where the Manualetto runs into the river. Incidentally it may be worth knowing that the ferryman makes the charge of $4 for carrying a car that distance.
